2011 CONFERENCE COMMITTEES

• EXHIBITS: Kathy Bradshaw, and Mara Villa, Central Mississippi Library System, Co-chairs
• HOSPITALITY: Susan Clark, Rowland Medical Center, Jackson, MS, Chair
• LOCAL ARRANGEMENTS: Ruth Ann Gibson, Mississippi College, Chair
• POSTER SESSIONS: Janet Armour, Itawamba Community College, Chair
• REGISTRATION: June Garner and Laurel Sammonds, Mississippi State University, Co-chairs
Welcome to Jackson, Mississippi, and the 2011 Mississippi Library Association’s Annual Conference! This year’s conference theme, Collaboration and Partnerships: The Building Blocks of Libraries, reflects a mission that all libraries have—-to build relationships within their communities that will strengthen the library as well as the lives of its patrons. These relationships are especially important today, when libraries must use their limited resources to serve the needs of their customers. Librarians have always been resourceful at finding creative ways to stretch their dollars and I am sure you will find a program at this year’s conference that will inspire you to “think outside the box” and offer something new to your patrons.

Jennifer A. Smith
2011 MLA President

Welcome to MLA 2011. I sincerely hope that you have a wonderful experience while attending the MLA Conference. The planning committee has worked very hard this year to bring you an exciting and diverse listing of programs. With over 65 workshops and events, there should be something for everyone. We hope that you will participate in the workshops, visit the exhibits and poster sessions, bid on items at the silent auction, and take part in the Technology Petting Zoo.

This year’s theme is Collaboration and Partnerships: The Building Blocks of (Successful) Libraries. As we continue to struggle through these difficult economic times, libraries will continue to have to work together and partner with other outside organizations. Many of the programs this week feature such collaborative endeavors and partnerships. I hope that you will participate in these discussions and take some of these ideas back to your library, community and region of the state. By working together, libraries have always been able to succeed! Although I am preaching to the choir, we have to continue to find new ways of building these relationships and forming partnerships. You are the key!

Another theme that has emerged since setting the overall theme, and it certainly ties in well with the overall theme, is “advocacy.” Many of the programs also revolve around the need for libraries to become stronger advocates at the local, state and national level. I especially encourage the younger librarians to attend these sessions to become well versed in advocacy and to learn from those with this experience and knowledge. Becoming better and stronger advocates at all levels is even more important this year as we have lost so many of our library champions in the state legislature. We have to educate the new legislative members and ensure that they understand the value that libraries bring to the table, the need for continued funding for all types of libraries and especially for MAGNOLIA.

I would like to especially thank the MLA sections, committees and roundtables for their excellent work in bringing such dynamic speakers. My heartfelt thanks to Mary Julia, Jennifer, June, Laurel, Janet, Mara, Kathy, Susan and, especially, Ruth Ann for their work on the planning committee. You all have been wonderful!

Sincerely,

Stephen Cunetto
MLA Vice President/President-Elect
GENERAL CONFERENCE INFORMATION

SILENT AUCTION
Be sure to participate in the MLA Silent Auction. As you know, the auction benefits both the Virgia Brocks-Shedd and the Peggy May Scholarship funds. We need your support to continue to provide scholarships to outstanding library and information science students. The Silent Auction will be held in the Mezzanine.

HOSPITALITY TABLE
Don’t forget to register for great door prizes while meeting with exhibitors in the Exhibit Hall. This year you must visit the table to register for a door prize on both Wednesday and Thursday. Check the Winner’s Board on a regular basis because drawings will occur every hour. All prizes must be picked up before exhibits close.

PARKING PASSES
Anyone who is staying at the hotel will be eligible to use the parking garage free of charge. For those not staying at the Marriot, you will be able to purchase a parking pass for $5 per day. On Tuesday, the passes will be available at the MLA Registration Desk, but you will pay $5 as you leave at the garage booth. Wednesday through Friday, the Marriott will have someone on the Mezzanine selling the passes and giving receipts.

EXHIBIT HALL
Join us at 10:45 a.m. on Wednesday for the grand opening of the Exhibits. Exhibits officially open at 11:15 a.m. and will be open until Thursday at 5:00 p.m. Please be supportive of our exhibitors and express your appreciation to them for being with us.

POSTER SESSIONS

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 19, 2011
1:00 – 2:00 p.m.

Vintage Scholastic Book Club titles: The creation of an annotated bibliography
Allisa Beck, University of Southern Mississippi Gulf Coast
This poster session will show the process used to begin developing an annotated bibliography of Scholastic Book Club books that were published between the years 1950-1979. Information had to be located using various websites, databases, and used-book sites, both online and ‘brick and mortar’ stores.

Blind & Physically Handicapped Library Services
Shellie Zeigler, Mississippi Library Commission
Too many Mississippians have either lost their vision, have low vision, or for some reason cannot hold a book anymore. This does not mean they have lost their love of reading. The Blind & Physically Handicapped Library Services is a vital alternative for these individuals to continue their love of reading and have access to audio books, braille, magazines, and large print. This is a free service that is available to all who are eligible so “that all may read.”

At a Distance: The Manager with Many Hats
Rachel Cannady, Mississippi State University Libraries
Distance education is exploding at institutions of higher learning, and Mississippi State University is no exception. This poster will address how the MSU Libraries’ Distance Learning Project Manager has used a variety of means to address the distance learners’ needs through outreach, marketing, and targeted communication. Future plans for assessing these efforts will also be discussed.
Science Café on the Mississippi Gulf Coast
Joyce M. Shaw, Gunter Library Gulf Coast Research Laboratory, University of Southern Mississippi
This presentation will describe the development of the Science Café at the University of Southern Mississippi Gulf Coast campus library in Long Beach and at the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory in Ocean Springs.

Library 911: Disaster and Emergency Preparedness for Libraries and Archives
Jennifer Brannock, University of Southern Mississippi
This poster session will focus on ways that libraries and archives can prepare for disasters and emergencies. Some of the issues addressed include tools for creating a disaster preparedness plan, working with local authorities, supplies needed to respond, and local and national groups that can assist with recovery. A handout will be provided with activities and supplies to help prepare for a potential disaster.

Dissertation Committees as a Window into Interdisciplinary Research
Li Zhang & Brad Brazzeal, Mississippi State University Libraries
This poster presentation examines dissertation committee composition to understand the interdisciplinary nature of graduate research. The results provide useful information for academic librarians.

Lessons Learned: Bringing Insights from Immersion to Mississippi State University Libraries
Elizabeth Downey, Mississippi State University Libraries
Immersion is an intensive library instruction workshop sponsored by the Association of College and Research Libraries (ACRL). Ms. Downey attended the most recent Immersion as part of the “Teacher Track” at Seattle University from July 24-29, 2011. In this session she will reflect back on her experience and how the “lessons learned” will help her promote library instruction and advance information literacy at Mississippi State University Libraries.

Academic and Public School Library Collaborations: Building Information Literacy Skills During Formative Learning Years
Jeff Simpson, Rosa Parks Library, Troy University, Montgomery Campus
Effective collaboration can enhance the development of students' information literacy skills and contribute to academic success. This can be especially true when university and public high school librarians partner to teach library information literacy and research skills to high school seniors. Experience the successes, setbacks, and lessons learned during this joint collaboration.

The Amazing Library Race: Hurricane Preparedness Edition
Jorge Brown & Shugana Williams, University of Southern Mississippi-Gulf Coast Libraries
Inspired by the CBS show, the Amazing Race, the University of Southern Mississippi Gulf Coast Library designed a game to help student, faculty, staff, and community members prepare for the 2011 hurricane season by utilizing university library resources. Listen to two librarians as they discuss how this event helped individuals become acclimated to the University of Southern Mississippi Gulf Coast Library and more importantly prepare for the hurricane season.

Library Liaisonship from Scratch: Starting an Outreach Program to the Shackouls Honors College at MSU
Greta Wood, Mississippi State University Libraries
How does a recent hire meet the challenge when given a free-form mandate to develop a new library liaison relationship with the Shackouls Honors College at Mississippi State University (MSU)? With no set guidelines or goals to follow, learn how this librarian planned her strategy by stalking the Internet for ideas, talking to people, collecting examples from scholarly literature, and directing her outreach efforts toward events and services that would be of use to her target audience.
POSTER SESSIONS

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 19, 2011
3:30 – 4:30 p.m. (continued)

Quick Read (QR) Codes
Sarah R. Mangrum & Jennifer Crawley, University of Southern Mississippi
Quick Read (QR) Codes are two dimensional barcodes that are readable by scanner enabled smart phones and other mobile devices and can be an innovative addition to your library’s catalog, signage, and marketing plan. This poster session will provide an informative and interactive experience for the user. Stop by and see how your library can start using QR Codes today!

The World of Cataloging for Non-Catalogers
Sheryl Stump & Richard Torgerson, Delta State University
This poster session attempts to de-mystify the world of cataloging for non-catalogers by covering some of the major concepts of cataloging and their relationship to the creation of the catalog record.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 20, 2011
1:00 – 2:00 p.m.

Digitization of the John Elon Phay Collection
Pamela Williamson, University of Mississippi
See how Archives & Special Collections at the University of Mississippi digitized over 4,700 black and white images and Kodachrome slides from the John Elon Phay Collection. Images from this collection depict school segregation in thirteen counties in Mississippi as well as images of Ole Miss before the 1962 integration.

National Novel Writing Month at the University of Mississippi
Alex Watson, University of Mississippi
Analyzes a library pilot program during the 2010 National Novel Writing Month event at the University of Mississippi. Using participant-submitted word counts and the event's own tools, describes outcome of library hosting of National Novel Writing Month related events to determine and quantify community response.

An E-Book Odyssey: The History and Future of Electronic Books
David Salinero & Joi J. Phillips, Delta State University
This presentation examines a brief history of e-books, the pros and cons of an e-book collection, their place in an academic library setting, and the effects of transitioning platforms on library users, staff, and services such as reference and collection development.

QR Codes, Mobile Websites, and Apps…Oh My!
Courtney Hicks & Glenn McDowell, Northwest Mississippi Community College
A detailed description of how to create a mobile website, QR code, and App for the library for very small costs will be shown. Along with this, best practices in promoting the resource, feedback and usage statistics will be shared.

2:15 – 3:15 p.m.

Make Mine To-Go: Comparison of Web-based Bibliographic Management Tools
Erin Boyd, Troy University, Montgomery Campus, & Cynthia Wetzel, Mississippi Gulf Coast Community College
The poster will compile and compare features, upgrading options, product support, and sociability via communities and forums, blogs, Facebook, Twitter, etc., for three popular no- or low-cost web-based bibliographic reference management platforms: CiteULike, EasyBib, and Zotero.
Rediscovering a Child’s Sense of Wonder:
Depictions of Nature & Outdoor Play in Historical Children’s Literature
Victoria Penny, First Regional Library
How does children’s literature portray green spaces/outdoor play/interactions with nature (not merely when protagonists are in survivorist mode)? Do these depictions relate to or reflect movements which sought to promote health & welfare of children (outdoors, fresh air, etc. – cf. Last Child in the Woods today)? How does this compare/contrast to depictions of nature in contemporary (early 21st century) children’s literature?

Columbus-Lowndes Public Library Colorful Library Cards
Alice Shands, Columbus-Lowndes Public Library
Colorful + Visually Coded Library Cards=Delighted Customers and Informed Staff. Columbus-Lowndes Public Library issues colorful cards that not only delight the library customer, but cue the circulation staff of a customer’s status and needs.

University of Southern Mississippi Gulf Coast Library and the USM Gulf Coast Autism Project
Peter R. Dean, University of Southern Mississippi Gulf Coast
Presentation will explain the partnering between the University of Southern Mississippi’s Gulf Coast Library and the USM Gulf Coast Autism Project. It also will demonstrate that significant information needs exist outside the typical classroom scenario.

3:30 – 4:30 p.m.

Interns, Internships, and Special Libraries
Sheila A. Cork, New Orleans Museum of Art, and Jessica Herr, New Orleans Museum of Art (USM SLIS/NOMA Intern, Summer 2011)
Presentation will include a brief PowerPoint on the topic of Internships, Interns, and Special Librarians. There will be the chance to participate in a survey of Special Libraries and Librarians. Please join us.

E-book Readers in Today’s Library
Lisa Vardaman, Troy University
We as librarians have all heard of e-books and e-book readers. Most of us have even used an e-book at one time or another. A majority of our patrons received e-book readers this past holiday season. So how can we use them in our libraries, whether they are academic, public, or even special. So what can we as librarians do to help our patrons with their e-book needs?

Beyond the Campus: Community Engagement Strategies
Jonathan McMichael, Pamela Williamson & Greg Johnson -University of Mississippi
A community presence is vital for developing and sustaining mutually beneficial partnerships with the community. Librarians at J. D. Williams Library on the campus of the University of Mississippi are currently engaged in a series of initiatives that target specific segments of the surrounding community. Learn about our community oriented programs and recommendations for developing your own programs.

Taking Stock of Your Collection
Judy T. Greenwood, University of Mississippi Libraries
Conducting an inventory of a large collection is possible. An inventory can be efficient and cost-effective while improving the service quality of the library by increasing the ability to find items on the shelf that are listed in the library catalog.
MISSISSIPPI AUTHORS AWARDS RECIPIENTS
Thursday, October 20, 2011    6:00 p.m.- 8:00 p.m.

NONFICTION WINNER
Ellis Anderson grew up in Charlotte, NC, then migrated to New Orleans in pursuit of her artistic muse. She resided in the French Quarter for two decades before moving full time to the Mississippi Gulf Coast in 1996. A photographer, musician, designer and civic activist, her primary passion is writing. A regular contributor to Beach Blvd. Magazine, her work has been published in Southern Cultures, Salon and MSNBC. Anderson’s writing has garnered several awards, including the Eudora Welty 2010 Book Prize and a Mississippi Arts Commission Fellowship for Literary Excellence (2007) for her first book, Under Surge, Under Siege, the Odyssey of Bay St. Louis and Katrina, published by University Press of Mississippi. She lives in Bay St. Louis and works full-time as a freelance writer, photographer and media consultant. Named a Gulf Coast Preservation Hero (2006), Mississippi Public Citizen of the Year (National Association of Social Workers, MS chapter, 2008), and Hancock County Outstanding Citizen (2008), Anderson is currently focusing on the “crafted kinship” of community. Inspired by her own Katrina experience, she continues to explore why this network is crucial to our quality of life, how it supports the individual, and how to build community in an increasingly fragmented society. Her latest volunteer project is the popular “Fourth Ward Cleaver,” a unique neighborhood on-line newsletter that seeks to “make good citizenship easy – and fun!”

FICTION WINNER
Mary Anna Evans has degrees in physics and engineering, but her heart is in the past. Her series character, Faye Longchamp, lives the exciting life of an archaeologist, and Mary Anna envies her a little. Her novels have received recognitions including a spot on Voice of Young America’s (VOYA) list of “Adult Mysteries with Young Adult Appeal.” Mary Anna grew up in Hattiesburg where she was crowned a Junior Miss beauty queen for Lamar County. After high school, Evans went on to college where she obtained a degree in physics from Murray State University and a chemical engineering degree from the University of Mississippi. In Floodgates, Archaeologist Faye Longchamp explores New Orleans, Louisiana, just after the devastating floods of Hurricane Katrina. Her work follows its routine path until the corpse of Shelly Broussard, an archaeologist student, is found in a Katrina flooded-out house. As the mystery unravels, Faye and her staff, including her fiancé, Joe Wolf Mantooth, discover danger all around them. Longchamp’s Assistant Nina Thibodeaux is knocked out and pushed into the river, nearly drowning. Detective Jodi Bienvenu along with Faye become targets when someone shoots at them as they sit relaxing and talking in the courtyard outside Longchamp’s apartment. The answers for Shelly’s death wind down a road of treachery, fraud, and attempted murder taking Faye and Joe along. (Review courtesy of Donna Fite)

SPECIAL AWARD
Hester Bass grew up in rural Georgia, close enough to Atlanta to experience the jewels of city life yet still raise tadpoles on the porch. She was educated in Boston, receiving a B.A. in Communications from Simmons College, and then remained in Massachusetts to work in radio and television advertising. She then moved to New York to study acting where she met her husband, an artist and fellow southerner. After leaving New York, she spent fifteen years in Atlanta, seven years in Ocean Springs on the Mississippi Gulf Coast, and now lives at the foot of a mountain in Alabama. The Secret World of Walter Anderson, a picture book biography of the remarkable Mississippi artist, Walter Inglis Anderson, was published in September 2009 by Candlewick Press and is illustrated by E. B. Lewis. It received a starred review in Kirkus and was named one of the best books of the year, winning the 2010 SIBA Book Award and the 2010 NCTE Orbis Pictus Award for Outstanding Nonfiction for Children.
AN AFTERNOON TEA WITH AUTHORS
Wednesday, October 19, 2011   3:00 p.m. – 5:00 p.m.

MARTHA HALL FOOSE
Screen Doors and Sweet Tea: Recipes and Tales from a Southern Cook
Clarkson Potter, 2009

A Southerly Course: Recipes and Stories from Close to Home
Clarkson Potter, 2011

Born and raised in Mississippi, Foose cooks Southern food with a contemporary flair: Sweet Potato Soup is enhanced with coconut milk and curry powder; Blackberry Limeade gets a lift from a secret ingredient—cardamom; and her much-ballyhooed Sweet Tea Pie combines two great Southern staples—sweet tea and pie, of course—to make one phenomenal signature dessert. A James Beard Award (2009) winner for Screen Doors and Sweet Tea, chef Foose celebrates the "eccentricity, ingenuity, and creativity" of Southern cooking as she personally has experienced it.

FORREST LAMAR COOPER

Looking Back Mississippi: Towns and Places
University Press of Mississippi, 2011

Drawn from his regular column in Mississippi Magazine, historian and archivist Forrest Lamar Cooper has brought together thirty-nine of his best essays on the various cities, towns, dwellings, parks, and institutions of historical resonance. Covering all corners of the state, from the mid-1800s to the 1930s, the volume offers an engaging, convivial alternative history of Mississippi, one that emphasizes the obscure and small-scale over the big picture.
KEYNOTE SPEAKERS

SId SALTER
Sidney L. “Sid” Salter is journalist-in-residence at Mississippi State University Libraries. MSU’s 2004 National Alumnus of the Year, Salter was a John C. Stennis Scholar in political science as a student. At age 24, he became publisher and editor of the Scott County Times in Forest, Miss., and continued in that role for many years before leaving the weekly newspaper to become Perspective Editor at the Jackson Clarion-Ledger for a decade. Additionally, Salter hosted “On Deadline with Sid Salter,” a statewide talk radio show covering politics and other current issues on the SuperTalk Mississippi Radio Network.

As journalist-in-residence, Salter is strengthening MSU Libraries’ existing Special Collections Department and directing the University’s Morris W.H. (Bill) Collins Speaker Series, a series created to expand discussion of major political, social, and governmental issues. Salter continues writing his syndicated newspaper columns and is producing other unique written and digital content for the University as well as teaching MSU students in Communications and Political Science courses. His latest work is the forthcoming Jack Cristil: The Voice of the MSU Bulldogs.

Salter was the first journalist to hold the Kelly Gene Cook Chair of Journalism at the University of Mississippi and has covered politics from the court house to the state house to the White House. A two-time winner of the J. Oliver Emmerich Award, considered the premier annual honor of the Mississippi Press Association, Salter has also been honored by the Mississippi Farm Bureau as their “Agriculture Ambassador” for his writings on rural issues in 2006 and was honored in 2004 with the James Stubbs Award for volunteer service to Mississippi’s mentally ill, chemically dependent, and developmentally disabled for his work championing the construction of regional crisis mental health centers in the state.

KEN MILLER
Ken Miller is the founder of the Change and Innovation Agency, a firm dedicated to helping government increase its capacity to do more good. Ken speaks to thousands of government managers every year. He is the author of three books: Extreme Government Makeover, We Don’t Make Widgets: Overcoming the Myths That Keep Government From Radically Improving and The Change Agent’s Guide to Radical Improvement. He is a frequent columnist for Governing and co-founder of Public Great: An online community for change agents that lives by the creed: the work of government is noble, the people of government are amazing and the systems of government are a mess.

Government is under incredible pressure right now. The economic crisis has hit us with a double whammy: exponential increases in demand and dramatically reduced resources. Government simply doesn’t have the capacity to do all the good we want to do in this world. How have we responded to these new pressures? By trotting out the old ideas. More blue ribbon panels, travel moratoriums and calls for accountability. We cut back on paper clips and cut out the training. We outsource, upgrade and right size. Meanwhile droves of new customers are stuck on our porch waiting to knock on our door and ask for help.

The house of government doesn’t need another layer of paint or some new carpet — it needs an extreme makeover. And just like on the show it needs it done fast!

Our house is full of “moldy ideas” that are making everyone sick and our pipes are bursting from the ever-increasing demands. We can stand around arguing whether the house is too big or costs too much or we can grab some tools and fix it up. This presentation makes obvious the real problems plaguing government, how you can join the crew and gives you the tools to complete the makeover.
HESTER BASS
Hester Bass grew up in rural Georgia, close enough to Atlanta to experience the jewels of city life yet still raise tadpoles on the porch. She was educated in Boston, receiving a B.A. in Communications from Simmons College, and then remained in Massachusetts to work in radio and television advertising. MIGUEL A. FIGUEROA
Miguel A. Figueroa is the director of the American Library Association’s (ALA) Office for Diversity. Figueroa is an active member of ALA and the Special Libraries Association (SLA). A frequent presenter at conferences, he has been a presenter at ALA’s Spectrum Institute, the Emporia Diversity Leadership Institute and the 6th Institute of the Trejo Foundation for Hispanic Library Education. He is co-editor of the book Staff Development Strategies That Work!: Stories and Strategies from New Librarians (Neal-Schuman, 2008). Prior to his tenure at NYULMC, he was associate director of publishing (promoted from assistant director) for Neal-Schuman Publishers, where he managed the acquisitions process. Figueroa graduated in 2003 from the Knowledge River Program, part of the School of Information Resources and Library Science at the University of Arizona (Tucson), with a strong focus on the impact of diversity on libraries and library services. He received a double BA – English and History – from the College of Liberal Arts and the Barrett Honors College, Arizona State in 2002.

CHUCK GALEY
Chuck Galey has drawn all his life. “I had everything I needed growing up in a small farm town in the Mississippi Delta; a pencil, a piece of paper and a long-winded Baptist preacher.” He has illustrated over 60 educational books and 10 children’s picture books, one that he authored. When he is not working on books in his studio in Jackson, Mississippi, he is presenting exciting school programs that inspire and astonish students. His programs, listed on the Mississippi Arts Commission’s Teaching Artist Roster, encourage them to be creative in their reading, writing and art. For additional information about his school programs, visit his website: www.chuckgaley.com.

SAM HASKELL
Sam Haskell is former Executive Vice President and Worldwide Head of Television for the William Morris Agency and author of the autobiographical memoir Promises I Made My Mother. Haskell was named in 2007 by TV Week as one of the 25 Most Innovative and Influential People in Television over the last quarter century. In 1990, Haskell became the William Morris Agency’s youngest Senior Vice President. In 1994, he was named West Coast Head of TV and, three years later, Executive VP. The Amory native spent 30 years in Los Angeles before re-locating to Oxford, with his wife, former Miss Mississippi Mary Donnelly Haskell. The Haskells have two children, Sam IV and Mary Lane. Promises I Made My Mother, co-authored with New York Times bestselling author David Rensin, is a deeply personal story about living a principled life in unprincipled times. Since the book’s 2009 publishing, Haskell has been on a 90-city book tour, during which all personal proceeds from the sale of his memoir have been donated to foundations such as The Mary Kirkpatrick Haskell Scholarship Foundation, The Miss America Organization, The University of Mississippi Foundation, and New York University, as well as dozens of local charities. Haskell served as executive producer of “Mississippi Rising,” a three-hour MSNBC special hosted by Morgan Freeman, which raised over $30 million for those affected by Hurricane Katrina. Additionally, Haskell’s biennial “Stars Over Mississippi” benefit concerts in Amory, have raised millions of dollars in college scholarship funds for Mississippi’s youth.

PRESIDENT’S BASH HONORING JENNIFER SMITH, MLA PRESIDENT 2011

SPECIAL PERFORMERS

Jim and Martha Hession have been fixtures on the jazz scene for decades, and have performed with such luminaries as Eubie Blake, Teddy Wilson, Al Hirt, Bob Crosby, Johnny Guarnieri, Max Morath, Shelton Brooks, Gregory Hines, Savion Glover, and Disney songwriters the Sherman Brothers.

Jim and Martha had a 36-year professional connection with the Walt Disney Company. After performing at Disneyland, they were selected to be the first entertainers to open Walt Disney World. In 2003, Jim and Martha relocated to the Gulf Coast. Jim and Martha also entered into a performing relationship with the New Orleans Jazz National Historical Park, where they began a continuing series of themed educational shows on early jazz.

The past few years have been busy and productive as the Hessions have become very involved with New Orleans' Word of Mouth Studio, recording hundreds of tracks for their new CD releases. Jim and Martha are performing members of the Mississippi Artists Roster, sponsored by the Mississippi Arts Commission, and the Southern Artists Federation Roster, based in Atlanta.

Thrive of Survive: Making Libraries Relevant in the Age of Downsizing Government
Location: Windsor I

As governments at all levels adapt and adjust to a protracted recession, high unemployment, and the rising political anger of taxpayers who demand smaller government, institutions like public libraries can either be satisfied to merely survive or dare to thrive by shining a bright light on their relevance. But to do so, libraries must break out of the old paradigms and follow the examples of successful libraries that have broken the mold of libraries as quiet book museums and forged new and exciting roles as centers of learning, technology, and service.

Grand Opening of Exhibits

How to Turn Your Friends into Friend- and Fund-Raisers:
Creating Sustainable Multi-Year Fundraising Strategies for Public Libraries
Location: Canterbury

Community involvement with and support of a public library first starts with the Friends of the Library. Learn how to energize your Friends to ramp up financial support and community awareness by strategically planning goals to bolster the library’s needs and map out the path to reaching annual fundraising targets. Presenter: Kitty Cook Ramsey has been raising nonprofit and political funds since 1996 when she was asked to run the holiday employee giving program at her division of Prudential Insurance in New Jersey. Through careful analysis and creative tools, she helped grow this annual contribution from $1,200 and made it a $39,000 program in two years, while giving the company a $20,000 tax break in donated services. Today, Ms. Ramsey works with Mississippi Children’s Home Services as the Director of Annual Funds and volunteers as the Vice-President of Diversity for the Association of Fundraising Professionals – Mississippi Chapter.
